

Web programming is like building a fun and interactive playground on the internet! It involves writing code to create websites and apps that you can visit using a browser.